WASHINGTON, June 26.—The American farmer is facing bank-ruptey and only measures that will open foreign markets for the sale of his surplus products will save him from ruin, is the opinion of Carl Vrooman of Illinois, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

"Any politician or farmers' organisation official, who does not recognize this fact." said Mr. Vroomanitoday, "either is deliberately trying to mislead the farmer or is grossly ignorant of the A.B.C. of our nation-wide agricultural tragedy. No matter what else is done or is not done, until an outlet is found for at least a part of our hundreds of millions of bushels of surplus cotton, there is only one road open to the farmer and that is the broad highway that leads to destruction.

"In the face of our threatened agricultural extancityme, tinkering with the tariff, atimulating live stock on his doors needed repairing, it would be highly inexpedient to select the moment that his house was on fire to repair them. The prosperity of the American farmer and of every business based on agriculture extances, are so hopelessly inadequate as to be grotestique.

"I cannot help feeling that, even though the screens on a man's windown needed mending and the locks on his doors needed repairing, it would be highly inexpedient to select the moment that his house was on fire to repair them. Six Millions Die in Attack of Influenza.

City Overcrowding Amazing Sex Distribution. BY WILLIAM B. JENNINGS.

LONDON, June 26, Some startling facts emerge from the reports now being tesued on the Indian cansus. Perhaps the most surprising of all is the revelation that in the of all is the revelation that in the last ten years the population has increased only by 1.37 per cent. This is worse than the worst period of stagnation in France, which was supposed to hold the record in the degline in the growth. France's bickest period was between the years 1901 and 1911, when the increase was only 1.84 per cent.

The Indian decline is all the more astonishing because there it is a religious obligation for every girl to marry on attaining maturity. And the marriages are remarkably fertills. In France it is by no means the rule for every girl to marry, and childless marriages are common. In explanation, of course, there is the difficulty of taking the consumption be considered in India, whare the year majority are illiterate, and it is always an approximation in statistica. But after making all allow-vast majority are illiterate, and it always an approximation, in at itstica. But after making all allocances for this, the figures are statingly low, particularly as is typewious decade there was an icrease in population from 194.09 etc. 11,000,000. This time to number was expected to be not it than $46,000,000. Instead it $11,000,000.

stable, in which were a dozen hackney carriages.

In this slum area several houses had an average population of over 500 people. In many cases even the roof was occapied. There is one instance in which the enumerator found no less than ninety men sleeping on the roof. And they are among the aristocrats of their class.
Their poorer brethren have to be content with the shelter of a doorway or a street areade.

It is a disappointing result for the reformers who thought that by sweeping away the worst alump- of 950 California St., San Francisco Or Local Steamship and Railroad Agent

the reformers who thought that by aweeping away the worst slump of india's former capital they would improve the conditions of life for the poorest of the city's teeming population. A wide central avenue is now being built through what was at one time the most over-drowded part of the peorer quarter. This has certainly meant that some of the alum-dwellers have clung to their old haunts with the unfortunate result that the "reform" has only made matters much worse. Instead of single families living in whole houses they now crowd intesingle rooms.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEXES.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEXES. DISTRIBUTION OF SEXES.

One of the most curious disclosures of the census is the strange discrepancy that would seem to exist between the numbers of the sexes. In Calcutta the return shows $26,341 males to $17,833 females and in Bombay, 763,010 males to $69,943 females. It may be that these figures are somewhere near right, but it is open to serious doubt for the zeriahas of India are generally well occupied serious doubt for the senanas of India are generally well occupied and the war must have tended rather to increase the number of women compared with that of men than the contrary. At the same time the census returns make understandable the distressing revelation that of every seven adult women in Calcutta one is a loose character.

The tamable capacity of the Indian is indicated by the number of women he may have in his senana. And as it is a very human and untversal characteristic to escape as much taxation as possible fines days, it may be that the Indian has deliberately concealed the strength of his senana to avoid the payment of extra contributions.

Fleeing Bolshevik Russia to the Death is the experience of Mile. Valentina Zinima, formerly an ac-tress and singer of Petrograd, now pleting an engagement in the Russian version of the comic opera, "The Merry Widow," at the Theater Kreivie Zerkalo in Petrograd. Three days before the show closed Russia mobilized and Mile. Zinima imme diately enlisted in the nursing corps. Lacking experience, she says she was accepted as a nurse's helper and after six months of training was given her papers as a nurse and was sent to the Austrian front. It was there that a wounded Austrian patient stabbed her in the wrist, causing a serious infection and almost causing a serious infection and almost causing the loss of her right hand.

Mile. Zinima was attached to the Forty-eighth Artillery Regiment, which met severe losses at the hands of the Austrians, 5000 men being killed in one week. Retreat after retreat was made until the regiment was suddenly transferred to the Turkish front. The Russian troops drove the Turks to Bagdad, occupying that city forty-eight hours before being dislodged by a stronger force.

"LONELY."

Dear Miss Jordan: What comfort can you offer a woman who is utterly alone in the world and who has never had the faculty of making friends? Is her life worth living? I think not. CAROLINE.

Two immediate reflections, Caroline, follow the reading of your letter. The first is that no human being can be really alone in the world. The second is that your viewpoint of what life means needs changing. EVERYONE IS LONELY.

In one way we are all alone. One of the most impreabout the experience we call living is the inevitable isolation of individ-ual souls. We live our real lives within ourselves, no matter how many

"Ivery mornin'," said Mr. Hennessy in one of the admirable reflec-tions Mr. Dunne put into his mouth, "I look at what sits opposite me at breakfast table an' I say to meself, 'What is ut? I call ut Mrs. Hen--but what is ut? There's four yards of oil cloth between us-

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Blames the Lobby,

consility Will Bring Back Health and Glow of Youth.

That's what Mrs. Gouverneur Merris, wife of the well known author, calls it and it's the latest idea behind what are usually alluded to as "beauty parlors," for Mrs. Morris's ideas are—But suppose, we let her outlins them for harself:
"Nearly every woman," as Mrs. Morris points out. "when she approaches thirty-five, with her children reaching the age when they do not require all her attention, is face to face with the problem: What shall I do' The modern mother provided she is strong and well, has three roads open to her—taking up some sort of business, devoting herself to the rounds of society or sinking into a mental-and physical oblivion. Virtually her only problem is the raising and educating of her children and seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are properly feel a longing for something to all the seeing that they are and the establishment of Primrose House, which is the hame selected for my organization, as my medium of expression. Some people insist upon referring to it as a beauty parior. But it is more than that, far more. I do not claim to preserve or restore beauty as it is generally understood—for a great many women never possess it—but to revive the personality of youth which has been lost by reason of the multifold cares and worries of later life. "Lock around you Only one person in a hundred who has passed forty possesses a real personality, not because abe never had it but because als falled to hold onto it. And nessy—but what is ut? There's four yards of oil cloth between us—an' twinty million miles!"

Every one of us. Caroline, gazing at our nearest and dearest, has induged in some such reflection as this. We came into the world alone, we so out of it alone, and however desperately we cling to others in our passionate effort to throw of the sentence of loneliness under which each human being exists, we live alone.

NOT ALWAYS UNDERSTANDING.

The father of half a dozen sons and daughters may know infinitely less about his children than the neighbor around the corner knows and daughters may know infinitely less about his children than the neighbor around the corner knows are fregtionate companionship, may love one snother all their lives without one hour of real insight or understanding of one unother.

Those who seem to love may hate. Those who seem to hate may love. So empty that children—and no life is the children—and no life is of all, the children cannot be life you are indeed alone, Caroline, by which you doubtless mean that to do woman, perhaps in a hut, perhaps in the most pretentious house in the place.

THEY WHO WAIT.

THEY WHO WAIT.

THEY WHO WAIT.

THEY WHO WAIT.

Making More Money.

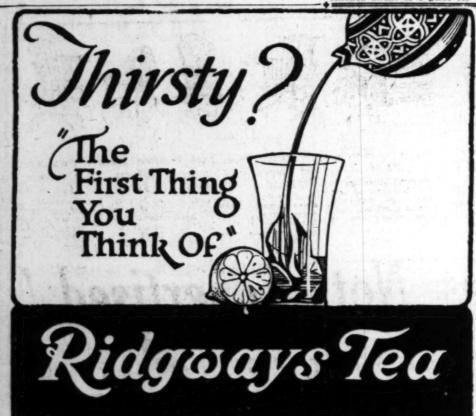

THEY WHO WAIT.

You don't know them? Good heavens, woman, so out and look for them. They are all around you. Go to the hospitals and comfort the sick. Go to the asylums and play with little children. Go to your pastor and ask him to tell you who in his flock needs companionship and help. He will know of many. In other words, Caroline, open your eyes. Before you in endless procession are passing in this very hour the potential members of your family. Unhappy men, unhappy women, helpless children. It is they who will make your life worth while. Without them, however close the ties you made, you would indeed be lonely. THEY WHO WAIT.

The jurors in the case of Mrs. Cora Orthwein, who admitted the killing of her lover, found her not guilty. The case was a mild replica of the one in which Clara Smith Hamon was freed. If the trials had been held in Les Angeles both women might have been convicted. Jurors here seem to have learned how to punish the woman when she turns man-killer. But the rest of the country cannot show like progress. This is the twenty-eighth murderess the Chicago spourts have freed in recent years. In fact, there is record of but three convictions in the annals of the city. We are doing better here and are proud of it. When a lady. CREEING THE WOMAN. ter here and are proud of it. ARGE FIGURES. The arens in which Messrs. Carpentier The areas in which Messrs. Carpentier and Dempsey are to exchange greetings will seat 91.613 persons, according to the testimony of the architect and contractor. At the prices asked by the promoter the receipts would be more than $1.800,000 if all the seats were occupied. They undoubtedly will be, as most of the high-priced seats have already been disposed of. The final rush will be for the $5 seats, which are not eserved. About nine hundred thousand ollars' worth of seats have already been sold, so that it is certain that all world's records will be broken at the gate. Fortutely. Uncle Sam will get the long and of it. He not only takes a big slice of the door receipts, but he gathers a fat income tax from the division of the purse. DAYING FOR PROPAGANDA. When Mrs. Frank Leslie died her will left something like a million and a half of dollars to the cause of woman suffrage. It may be said to be fairly well established in may be said to be fairly well established in this country, but it appears from the report of Carrie Chapman Catt, leader of the suffrage forces, that over half a million dollars of the Lealie fund has already been expended here and that the balance will soon be used up in spreading the gospel of suffrage in the Philippines, Hawaii and Porto Rico. A couple of thousand years from now the ladies of the Igorrote village will thank the Lord for the money that Mrs. Frank Leslie gave somebody to spend in showing the gave somebody to spend in showing the women of Luson how to mark a ballot. But It seems funny that the money of a shrewd woman like Mrs. Frank Leslie should be blown in at the rate of about a million dol-lars for a suffrage campaign in Porto Rico and the Philippines. It looks like lost mo-

TEMPEST TORSED.

Voters in Glendale are having a taste of big-league stuff. The municipal campaign now raging there is like a slice of the world's series. Looks as if all the leagues were represented down to the League of Nations. Under the new city charter the citizens are called upon to elect five Alder-men. This Council will choose a city manpoard are all candidates for the Council. But most of those who voted for the new charter wanted a new deal and so there is much opposition. As a result there are now sixteen or seventeen candidates for the Council and the citizens are being lined up in leagues for the purpose of selecting a ticket. There is a Glendale Municipal League, a Good Government League, a Better Council League, a Brotherhood League and perhaps a set of minor leagues; but all for the same purpose—the putting over of an Aldermanic group to suit that especial clique or body. The Municipal League is accused of blue-law desires. The candidates say that they have so intention of establishing an air-tight Sunday ordinance, but they were selected and backed by the Church Brotherhood and therefore many voters associate them with a puritan program. The Better Council League is said to have been formed with the definite idea of meeting the blue-law situation. Its can Soard are all candidates for the Council. of meeting the blue-law situation. Its can-didates are definitely pledged to oppose any proposition of the kind. The Good Government League sails conservatively between the extremes. It indorses part of the pres-ent board, but includes new material as well. There are other leagues and combi-nations and each voter may take the list of candidates and make up a little league of his own. But amid it all Gendale is havhis own. But amid it all Giendale is having the time of her young life and the campaign has reached a point where naughty words are being bandled and reputations pilloried. It is quite certain that families are divided—husband and wife supporting separate tickets. Last week the campaign reached the float stage and one of the contributions was a tasty representation of a graveyard on wheels in which members of the old board were supposed to be resting the old board were supposed to be resting under a group of classy headstones. There was a story behind it all which the citizens were supposed to understand. Glendalians who have a home bayond the grave would grasp the point at once. It dealt with a proposed cemetery extension which was unpopular with a lot of the citizens. But there are meetings, parades and the shed-ding of much literature, and the campaign is the wildest and maddest the lively town has ever known. It seems reasonably cer-tain that the blue-law proposition has been sidetracked for the time, but it is only for at time. There is a determination on the part of a considerable portion of the church citizenship to duplicate the Pomona adventure in Glendale. The election Tuesday may deter or hasten the hour—according

"THE NEXT WAR"—IT MUST NOT

The nation-size job that squarely confronts the United States of America now is to prove to the entire world be-yond peradventure of doubt that we fought the recent war to end war. A decent respect to the opinions of pos-terity and to American ideals of democracy demands nothing short of this. Not to take up the cudgels against a repetition of war would mean unspeakable disaster, cataclysmic struggle and the suicide of civilization.

A few prominent and patriotic leaders who saw what went on behind the scenes wanted to bring certain hard facts before the American people. Mr. Will Irvin was selected and invited to write, and the first result is "The Next War," an appeal to common sense.

The startling thesis of this telling book is this: "If war goes on un-checked, following its present tenden-cies, it means the elimination of whole races always the best races and the downfall of civilization." paths of peace are open, and we, "both actually and potentially the strongest nation of the world, are the appointed

What would the next war be like? It would be horror upon horror, mul-tiplied and compounded. It would be between, not armies, but entire peoples, and the code of "civilized war-fare" would be flung to the winds. Women and children would be fair

Gas tenfold more destructive than the German mustard gas would probably be the standard weapon. Brig.-Gen. Mitchell has told us that "a few planes could visit New York as the central point of a territory 100 miles square every eight days and drop enough gas to keep the entire area inundated. Two hundred tons of phosgene gas could be laid every eight days and would be enough to kill every

The killing possibilities of Lewisit might be readily supplemented by a weapon hitherto inconceivable, i.e., germ warfare. Gen. Swinton testified: I think it will come to that; and so far as I can see there is no reason why it should not, if you mean to fight."

Men and brethren, the weapons and the methods of the "Next War" will be so grewsome in their awfulness as to baffle the powers of the human imagination; its concomitant will be such a carnival of death as no known devices of man could hitherto inaugurate; its effect will be an unspeakable debacle of civilization. In his address of welcome to Ambassador Harvey. Premier Lloyd George solemnly declared: "If this war isn't the last war, the next war will leave Europe in

What about it? This: the "Next

What about it? This: the "Next War" must never be?

Who can prevent it? We, the people of the United States, can prevent it! As the great creditor nation of the world, it is ours to lead the peoples of the world out of a worse than Egyptian bondage. Consider the infinite folly of the vicious circle of national competition in building up armaments at the very time when governmental economy is the only cure for the world's crushing load of debt!

The mandate of the united people must go forth. Congress cannot disre-must go forth. Congress cannot disrewas observed in churches of all denom inations in the United States. This was in response to the challenge by Gen. Tasker H. Blisa who said: "If the cler-gymen of the United States want to secure a limitation of armaments they can do it now without any further waste of time. If, on an agreed-upon date, they simultaneously preach one sermon on the subject, in every church of every creed throughout the United States, and conclude their services by having their congregation adopt a resolution ad-dressed to their particular Congressman urging upon him the necessity of having a business conference of five nations

The effect of the sermons by the preschers and of the resolutions sent by their congregations to Congressmen is beginning to be felt. The national legis-lature, which has of late been animated by such a dull spirit when it comes to questions of world reconstruction, is showing signs of real activity. And it is high time! Behold the quintessence of folly! While staggering under the debt of a quarter of a trillion dollars brought on by the last war, to go on preparing for the "Next War!" What will it cost? "Throw into the scales all the accumulated wealth of the nations engaged and all their capacity to create or produce materials through the war period; pile up all they have and all they can make; that will be the next war cost! Death to the armies and the peoples; destruc-tion to property, including animals and plant life; the depletion of the soil by oisonous gases—all the land in ruins; this will be the next war cost!"

America can prevent the "Next War" without humiliation. "The pow-er has been given into our hands." Patriotism need not—must not—be abolished; common sense will not be abandoned. No principle of honor need be violated, but international morality will be exalted.

The "Next War" must not be! It would be opposed to the highest con-sideration of domestic and foreign commerce; it would do offense to personal ethics and international law; it would menace the dynamic of religion and the power of political idealism. Every consideration of the future of civilization and the race decrees that the world, not wholly forgetting the things that are past, proceed to build up a great program of enduring peace. This program demands the co-operation of the great powers of the earth— and America shall lead them. The "Next War"—It must not be!

Heads We Win, Tails We Lose!

REFUNDING OUR WAR LOAMS.

Our government holds promissory notes from nineteen nations aggregating $10,000,000,000. It borrowed that money from individuals, mostly American citizens and reloaned it in the form of food and was materials to countries fighting with us against the Central Powers. The notes from our foreign debtors are overdue; but they are not in a condition to pay. The obligations of our government to its creditors should be met, but to do so it must tax all of us for a sufficient amount to repay some of us.

How is the situation to be adjusted without imposing an unjust burden on the taxpayers? That is the problem the Federal administration is now trying to solve. That our associate nations are not in position to make prompt payment is not a jus for delinquency on the part of our own government. Yet the present annual tax burden of $5,000,000,000 is about as heavy has already caused several billion dellars to be withdrawn from industries and invested in nostaxable Federal, State and

The condition is a result of the war, one that could not be avoided and must be borne. Calling hard names will not modify tt. That debt is part of the residue of the last administration. No note of the Amercan government has ever gone to protest;

none must go now.

Secretary Mellon recently submitted to the President a proposition for refunding the loans, and the President passed it along with his approval to Congress. While this solution, which may be regarded by some as an evasion, is not wholly unobjectionable, no better one has been suggested.

There is no international court to which our government can appeal for a judgment against debtor nations. Forced collections between governments generally mean war. between governments generally mean war, and we have had enough fighting of late to suffice the present generation. The people would hardly approve using the army and navy to collect overdue accounts owing the government, especially when the money-borrowed was used for prosecuting a war in which we were all engaged. America has not yet become so mercenary as that.

Secretary Mellon processes exchanging

Secretary Mellon proposes exchanging the notes due from the foreign governments for their national securities, at a rate of interest higher than that carried by our Liberty Bonds; our government to indorse those securities and offer them in exchange for its own outstanding bonds. He says that this form of refunding would provide an extension of time until most of the foreign governments—he hopes all of them—would have sufficiently recovered from the effects of the war to repay the loans. The plan, if successful, would avoid an addi-tional tax burden at this time and would work a hardship on no one. Some of the accounts may never be paid; but, as all but $500,000,000 represent loans made to Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, it looks as though the loss would be comparatively negligible. Our principal debtors are as follows: Great Britain, $4.166,318,358; France, $3,350,762,930; Italy, $1,648,034,050; Belgium, $375,280,147; Russia, $192,601,297; Poland, $135,661,659; Czeho-Slovakis, $91,179,257.

Only the Russian account appears at the present time uncollectable. Great Britain is our heaviest single debtor; but in this nstance there are what may be termed extenuating circumstances; not justifying money represents loans sought by associ-ate nations in Europe. The British government urged that they should be made as a war necessity. Our government decided that it did not care to make further loans to the lesser powers. We loaned the money to Great Britain, on condition that she would reloan it to them, and the British government kept its pledges to the letter. More than $9,000,000,000 of those loans do not represent money that actually ex-changed hands. Our government simply extended credits for American supplies in that amount, and the other governments accept-ed them at prevailing war prices. Some foreigners are inclined to think that our government drove a hard bargain, taking advantage of their necessity. But this opin-ion is held only by the radical elements; the government of each debtor nation, except Russia, has expressed its willingness and its determination to pay in full.

Demagogues will doubtless take advantage of the situation to fulminate against the administration. Senator Borah has already made a speech charging that the plan of refunding is advanced in order to permit private creditors of those foreign na-tions in this country to be repaid before the government. He pretends to discern traces of a financial conspiracy.

But he has offered no alternative. If those loans are not refunded in a form acceptable to American bondholders the government will have to levy an additional tax sufficient to pay back the $10,000,000,000 it has borrowed. Who would suffer? The taxpayers of the United States, the ones who always suffer when the government fol-lows the advice of demagogues. Refusing to refund the foreign loans would not enasserted, there is no international court into which the debtors can be haled.

One advantage of the refunding plan is that it would bring an increased demand for Liberty Bonds, in order to exchange them at a higher rate of interest. Most of the issues would probably go back to par. Opposition to the plan may grow out of a present conflict of financial interests in our own country. New York and Chicago bank-ers are not working in harmony and what-ever one group wants the other will be very likely to oppose; but this should not be per-mitted to affect the major proposition, pro-tecting the taxpayer by refunding the foreign loans. As we view the situation at this time we have much to gain and noth-ing to lose in adopting the Mellon plan of

THE FREEDOM OF THE SAND. The seductive influence of a pernicious zample is revealed in the action of the Rotary Club of Atlantic City, which has declared itself unanimously in favor of the one-piece bathing suit, this decision having been arrived at apparently because Califor nia is doing it. To the members of the Rotary Club were shown alluring pictures of California ladies disporting themselves in this highly economical wearing apparel, and their Rotarian heads were completely turned. It was much as if California had said to New Jersey, "Now, girls, all together." The Atlantic City authorities appear to be puzsled and demoralised as to what action to take. California is much franker in its habits than the more staid East. California looks toward the mysticisles of the southern seas, which Mr. Frederick O'Brien has so recently made known to us. FOUR EINSTEIN LOOKS.

Good stories are rare these days, but here is one that is getting a lot of laughs in a Broadway musical show. A cross-eyed judge has three cross-eyed prisoners before him. He asks of the first: "What is your name?" The second one replies: "John name?" The second one replies: "John Smith." The judge looks at the second and says: "I wasn't talking to you," and the third says. "I didn't say anything."—[Indianapolis News.

The Natural Man. The natural man has a difficult time get-ting along in this world; half the people think he is a scoundrel because he is not a hypocrita—[Ed Howe's Monthly. KITCHEN CABINETS.

BY PREDERIC J. HASKIN.

WASHINGTON, June 35. - Who is to be the unofficial adviser, the minister without portfolio, the Col. House, the Kitchen Cabinet of the for no President has ever yet gotten along without an adviser of the kind ten and his connection with the administration seem to be about as follows:

He. like the President, is an Ohio newspaper man. His home is in Columbua, next deer to that of Harry M. Daugherty, the Attorney-General, and he is said to be Daugherty's closest friend. He began life as a country editor and supplemented his earnings by investing in leading Ohio industries so successfully that he is now able to leave business behind and devote himself to politics without a salary.

During the campaign Mannington was extremely active in the mysterious fashion befitting a Warwick. He consumed an enormous amount of mileage and held a great number of conferences. At Marion he was in charge of the newspapermen, and also is said to have read all of the Harding speeches before they were delivered.

New he has come to Washington, and he, Daugherty and Jessé Smith have taken a large house on K street and there dwall in considerable style. Jesse Smith also is an Ohioan, a storekeeper, and said to be one of the sharpest traders in the Middle West. He has no intention of helping to run the administration, according to the most reliable reports, but has merely come here along with the rest of the population of Ohio, doubtless to avoid loneliness.

A HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

A HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

This K-street house bids fair to be an administration landmark, housing as it does the Cabinet officers and the private citizen who are reputed to be closest to the President. It is also said to be famous for its hospitality. Its occupants are careful to explain that their establishment is not a place of undemocratic magnificence, but a measure of economy. For a time, it seems, Mannington and Daugherty lived at one of the local hotels. They found the service unsatisfactory, and their endurance was exhausted when one of the belines exhausted when one of the belines exhausted when one of the belines exhausted when the trusted of national and international importance were delayed while the President's secret adviser was pantaloonless. Following this unfortunate epissed, the K-street house was taken, and is said to have proved less expensive as well as more convenient.

Just exactly what happens in this K-street residence is, of course, a mystery. Being a mystery is one of the chief functions of a Presidential adviser, and may also be one of his chief assets, as Cel. House A HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

M-street residence is, of course, a mystery. Being a mystery is one of the chief functions of a Presidential adviser, and may also be one of his chief assets. as Cel. House demonstrated. Mannington, it is said, will emulate the colonal by never speaking for direct quotation. He will be much talked and written about, but will never talk himself, except in the bosom of the administration family. His moral sentiments and political convictions will reach an expectant world at second and third hand, and they will be lefty and somewhat general in character. Thus he is elready known to have expressed the opinion that unemployment, should be remedied and that taxes eught to be reduced. He is described as a man detached, philosophical, humorous, addicted to making epigrams, and not strongly partian. It is stated that he will keep the President informed as to public sentiment, and that his own State of Ohio will be the laboratory is which he will, text and analyze that strange fluid. It is said to quote with approval McKinlay's remark: Tell me what Ohio thinks and I'll tell you what the wountry thinks. His theory is that in Ohio are represented all the elements of the American population, and that therefore Ohio opinion is a cross section of American opinion. It may at least be hazarded that Ohio opinion will have a good deal to de with the activities of the present administration.

Busides studying public sentiment, the next most important function of a Kitchen Cabineter is to economize the President's time by seeing people. Patronage matters, especially, it is understood, will be the ears of Mr. Mannington, but he will "see" people on a great variety of subjects. Everyone who has had any dealings with administration knows that there is always an unofficial some one whose ar is sometimes worth more to the seeker of favors than that of the President himself. In the late administration, of course, this place was long held by Col. House. In Taft's time, Brother Charlie was the man to see, and during Roccevelt's administration, despite the self-sufficiency of its chief incumbent. "See Lodge" was advice given so often that even Archie Roccevelt, as a small lad, is said to given it to a watchman in the White House grounds who was in need of some favor from on high. Hanna was the cower behind the portice in McKinley's administration, and Daniel S. Lamont was Cleveland's favorite adviser. Se the succession runs all the way back to Andrew Jackson, who seems to have been the first to lean heavily on unofficial advisers, and to have given origin to the term "Kitchen Cabinet."

MRS. HARDING'S PART. All of these have been men of mys-tery to some extent. That is, no one has known just what part each has played. One might guess with some confidence that some of them have been strong men dominating week Presidents and others have been in-struments employed by strong Pres-idents.

struments amployed by strong Presidents.

It has been suggested that in the present administration, the Kitchen Cabinet may well be said to include the rightful mistress of the kitchen. Of course, other first ladies have had an acknowledged influence upon what their husbands did in public matters, and this was notably true of Mrs. Hayes. There was much contradictory gossip about what Mrs. Wilson did during her husband's illness, some giving her credit for considerable usefulness in a political way.

Of Mrs. Harding's keen interest in her husband's political life, and of his confidence in her, there seems to be no doubt. Besides, she is the first of the first ladies to have a vote, and a large voting constituency of her own sex. If it becomes known that the President places large confidence in his wife, and that the wife is favorable to the legislation that women want, those facts would certainly be worth many feminine votes to the administration. Certainly a situation has been created in which a President's wife might build for herself a really formidable political power, if she was a woman of strength and intelligence.

Whether such a part is to be taken by Mrs. Harding cannot yet be

THREL PALL PORKED TAILS OF FISHES.

Most marine animals which swim especially swiftly and continuously have a forked tall fin. This shape o tail avoids the space immediately beneath the axis of the body where the stream lines following the sides (of a moving fish) converge. A rounded or pointed tail which would occupy such area would be a drag.

Whales and porpoises, though they move the tail up and down instead of from side to side, have a forked tail fin, only it lies in a horizontal instead of a vartical plane. The wide ranging members of the mackerel family and other more or less related marine fishes have a forked tail set on a firm, narrow base; and the freest swimming sharks (mackerel sharks and the man eater) have acquired a tail of the same shape, though the ordinary shark tail is weak and unsymmetrical.

Fresh-water minnows almost invariably have a forked tail fin, waters which they have to traverse being considerable in relation to the small size of the fishes themselves.—[National Geographic Magazins. tail avoids the space immediately in the City Jall on gambling and rooming-house violating charges as a result of raids late Saturday and arly yesterday by four squads of

of Sergeant Toomey.

The most spectacular raid was staged in the Germain Building, 224 South , Spring street, where big "crap" games and gambling estab-lishments have been in operation for hearly two months. Using Officers McCarron, Bruttig, Johnson, Woolard, Banner and Sergeant Massey, Sergaant Toomey directed the raid there, with the result that twenty-seven men, who were charged with conducting gambling, and two who were charged with conducting gambling, were taken into custody.

The police may that Milton B. Page and P. J. Murphey are the two men who were in charge of the place at the time the raid was staged. Thousands of dollars were on the tables when the officers gained entrance to the place, they may.

gained entrance to the place, they say.

Twenty-seven others were taken into custody at 413 North Los Angeles street. They were variously charged with gambling, having lottery tickets in their possession and conducting gambling. Baskets of evidence, containing lottery tickets, ships and other gambling parapherantia, were brought to the station. The other gambling raids were at 628 South Spring street, eleven arrests; at 368 South Flower street, where three were arrested by Officers Johnson and Bruttig; at Eighth and Bauchet street, five arrests by Officers Johnson and Woolard, and at Twelfth street and Hooper avenue, where there were five arrests by Officers Johnson, and Woolard. A raid on a house at $26 % Hemlock street, conducted by Officers McCarron and Bonner, netted five men and women who were charged with vagrancy and rooming-house violations.

Quality and Price Reputation and Confidence

The quality of merchandise we offer for sale is of such character that whoever is fortunate in purchasing from us have no regrets. The price we ask is as low as any merchant who figures on paying his bills can sell for and continue in business. The favorable reputation we have created by straight, honest, Golden Rule methods has gained for us the confidence of the public, and daily we are receiving our reward in increased business. We do not promise the impossible nor make exaggerated claims to get business. There is no misrepresentation in our shop, nor in our advertisements. We make good every promise we make, because we do not promise anything we cannot deliver. The frantic efforts of certain panic-stricken dealers to get people in their stores by offering impossible bargains is evidence of their diminishing business, and methods of this kind will not help them, because the public of today is intelligent enough to know that there is little chance of connecting with such impossible bargains. To those who are deceived by such dishonest methods, this advertisement will have no significance, and we do not expect them to buy from us, nor from any of the other reliable stores. When too late they will discover they have purchased worthless articles. We can only sympathize with them, which has little satisfaction. We are pleased to inform the public that prices on Trunks, Suit Cases, Traveling Bags, Ladies' Hand Bags, etc., are much lower than formerly and that it is now possible to get a

For the discriminating traveler we have some very fine, high-grade, exclusive Trunks, Suit Cases, Traveling Bags, Ladies' Hand Bags and other accessories that are a satisfaction to the possessor.

We also handle a popular line of merchandise that appeals to those who want good serviceable goods at a lower price. We will be pleased to supply your wants and cordially invite you to visit our splendid shop.

The Daily Fun Hour.

The day is past when housewives are sahamed to say. "I haven't this or that piece of equipment." For in this day of the high cost of everything, few of us can afford all the conveniences. An it co cream freeser is one of those necessary, and return of the conveniences. An it co cream freeser is one.

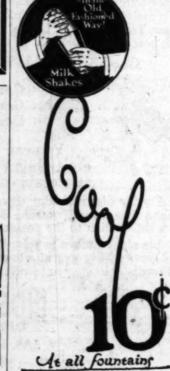

But luckly, it is not necessary to have a freeze injured to make one kind of ice cream. This kind that requires no freezing, but dimpty packing in salt and ice, is called mususe, and it can be made either with heavy cream whileped to a stiff time. Here are some fine mouses recipes:

these days, to enable one to abreast of the market, when it com ing over the tables of any depart-ment store whereon are exhibited the hundred and one devices to exgreater in proportion, in many case at the close of such a tour.

lated articles a shopper brings home at the close of such a tour.

Many of these—most of them, in fact—are made of aluminum, a metal which, as the dictionary explains though not in the identical language, has everything else ever invented in cooking ware material faded in the essential properties of lightness, mallesbility and resistance to oxidation.

Some of the small new wrinkless in cuisine tools include a patent milk bottle top which either supplies the place of the missing paper cap or acrews down into the latter when it sticks and deftily lifts it out of the bottle neck without the usual operation aided with a fork prong or a nut pick. There is also an aluminum cream dip and separator which may be inserted into the bottle and used to lift out the rich top milk. Also in this list of equipment is the egg and best elicer, similar to the potato chipper of familiar usage and which has a large place in the heart of the confirmed salad-maker who enjoys garnishing effects.

Aluminum egg rings for poaching are not new, but there is a pristine variation consisting of a triple set of cups attached to a long handle. A single motion plunges the handy little utensil into a pan of boiling water, and the deed of egg-poaching is accomplished. In addition the cups are labor savers in that they require no buttering.

Right Payment.

Nine-year-old Charles carried letters from the lawyer next door to his best girl. Every time he took one the lawyer gave him a dime. But one day he decided to reward him a little better. He started to fish two dimes out of his pocket. "I guess these letters are worth about 20 centa," he remarked facetiously, "Yes, sir," Charles agreed, soberly, "that's what I get—a dime from you and one from her."

But he didn't know what there was about his speech to make the fellow grin so happily.—[Indianapolis News.

Promising Signs.

It is said a rich field awaits those with capital to carry on the preliminary work in this district.

Establishment of a big supply headquarters in the South Poso district of the Kern River field by the Standard Oll Company is forecast in negotiations between the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific officials as to the building of a spur track into the new field. The track will be run from Saco, about twelve miles northwest of Bakersfield, according to present plans. It is said a rich field awaits those with capital to carry on the preliminary work in this district.

of the company, not satisfied with merely bringing in a gasser, have stopped the flow and will drill deeper hoping to encounter a gusher oil sand. The well is located on section 6, east of the No. 1 well of the company in section 12, which recently blew up with a gas pressure which closed the casing.

The Pan-Pacific Petroleum Corporation of which Herman Layer of San Francisco is president, and George C. Sabichi of Bakersfield is treasurer, has recently inauguarated a campaign of redrilling and deepering all of its well in the Kern River field. On June 2 the No. 5 well was finished at a depth of 1195 feet and started off at the rate of thirty-five barreis a day. Since that time No. 1 well has been completed and is producing about twenty-five barreis a day. Since that time No. 1 well has been completed and is producing about twenty-five barreis and the property these two wells have been small producers, but the recent redrilling will increase the production approximately 1000 barreis monthly, it is said.

Superintendent John Harding reports that wells Nos. 3, 6 and 7 will be redrilled and reperforated immediately and that the present production is in excess of 3000 barreis monthly, it is said.

bor redrilled and reperforated immediately and that the present production is in excess of 3000 barrels monthly. Increased production from redrilling accounts for a large amount of this work now being done in the Kern River field.
